ABSTRACT

Designed to be used with the New Zealand curriculum framework, this slide presentation defines "information literacy," gives an information literacy overview, proposes 10 questions that students need to ask themselves, and provides student educational objectives for information skills. The report presents an essential skills assessment formula for primary (years 5 and 6), intermediate (years 7 and 8), and secondary (years 9 and 10) grade. It offers examples of definitions and discusses persuasive language and positive, negative, and neutral writing for intermediate and secondary grades, as well as ambiguity for secondary grades. It then focuses on evaluating information in text and finding information in prose text for intermediate and secondary levels. Contains 13 references. (NKA)

Information Literacy in School Work

Table 1: Information Literacy Overview

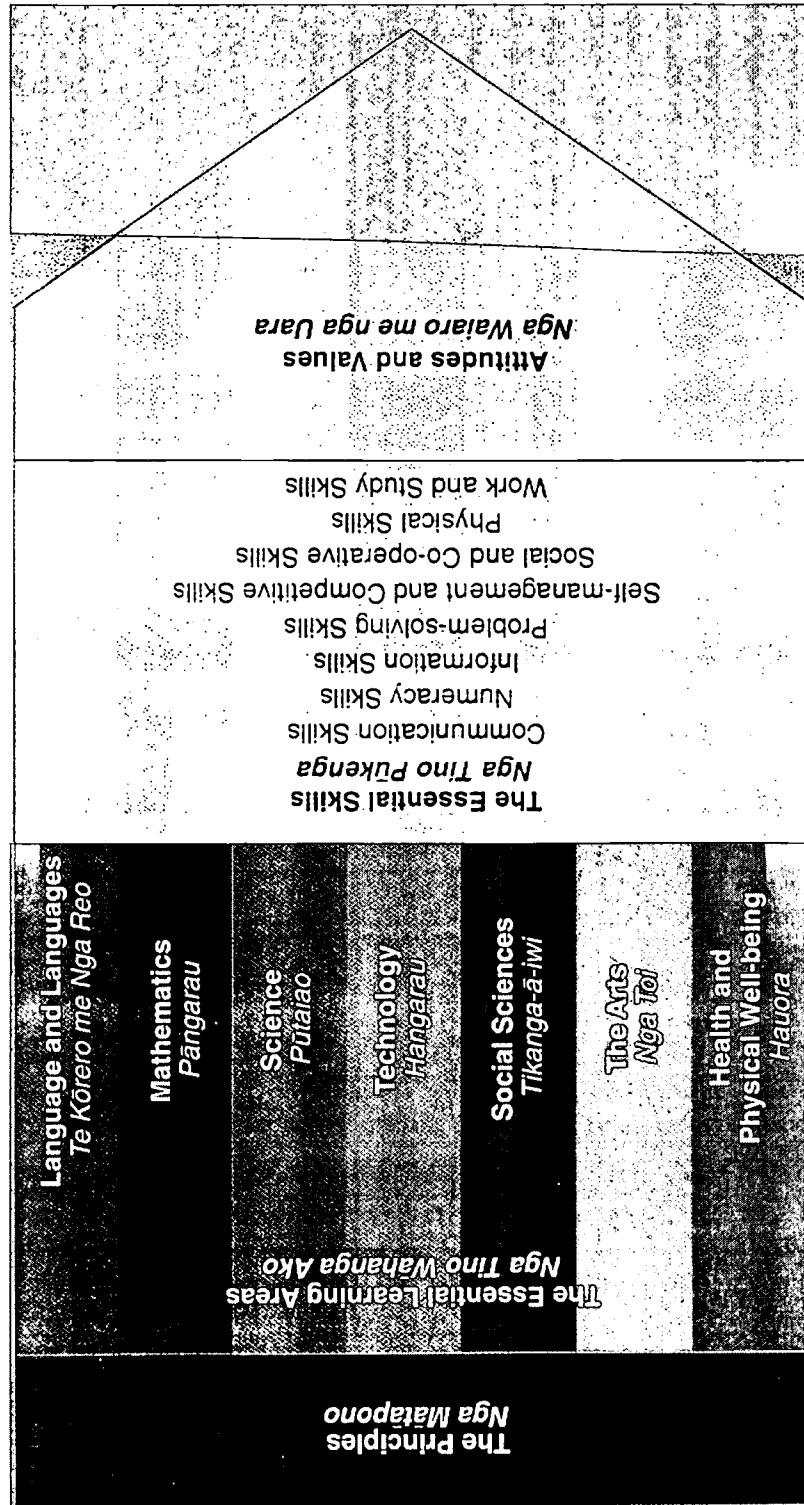

Questions Students

Need to Ask Themselves

- What is the problem I have that information will help solve?
- What exactly do I need to know?
- How do I get the information I need to answer my problem?
- How do I know which information to trust?
- How is the information I have found relevant to my problem?
- What does the information I have selected mean?
- How do I put all the information together with what I already know so that I can create a solution for my problem?
- How do I share my solution with others?
- How do I know that my solution is any good?
- How do I know that the processes I used are any good?
- Cognitive stages: knowledge, comprehension, application, analysis, synthesis, evaluation

The NZ Curriculum Framework

Information Skills

▮ Students will:

- | identify, locate, gather, retrieve, and process information from a range of sources;
- | organise, analyse, synthesize, evaluate, and use information;
- | present information clearly, logically, concisely, and accurately;
- | identify, describe, and interpret different points of view, and distinguish fact from opinion;
- | use a range of information-retrieval and information processing technologies confidently and competently.

THE ESA:IS TESTS

- replace the PAT Study Skills.
- are designed for formative assessment.
- are group administered.
- require 30 minutes testing time.
- can be used at any time between March and November.
- contain a range of item and question types – the tests are not predominantly multiple-choice.
- cover two years at each level, so that the tests may be used to identify strengths and weaknesses and monitor progress over time.
- can be used for comparative purposes as each student's score can be converted into a stanine.

ESA:IS Descriptions

■ The six test modules are:

- 1. Finding Information in Reference Sources. Knowledge of sources, directories, encyclopedias, and dictionaries are all included in this test.
- 2. Finding Information in Books. Students knowledge of alphabetical order, parts of books, indexes, and table of contents are all assessed in this test.
- 3. Finding Information in a Library. This test focuses on locating information in a library and on the selection of relevant, current, and authoritative items.
- 4. Finding Information in Graphs and Tables. In this test a student's ability to comprehend simple and complex graphs and tables are assessed.
- 5. Finding Information in Prose Text. The ability to rapidly scan for information and to take notes from expository text are assessed in this test.
- 6. Evaluating Information in Text. This test assesses skill in differentiating positive, negative, and neutral statements, facts from opinions, identifying assumptions and correct conclusions, along with other evaluative skills.

■ The two rating scales are:

- 1. Teacher Rating Scale. This rating scale is designed to complement the tests and to provide broader information for the teacher. It comprises both an observation checklist and a rating scale.
- 2. Student Self-Rating Scale. This enables students to evaluate themselves by determining how confident they would be or how difficult it would be for them to do a given task.

Examples of Definitions

■ Recognising Assumptions

- An assumption is something that is thought to be true without proof.

■ Identifying Persuasive Language

- Persuasive language tries to influence you to a certain course of action. For example, advertising aims to convince you to buy a product.

Intermediate

- Positive, Negative, and Neutral Writing

Underline the one sentence which is negative about the rugby game between the Cheetahs and the Drifters.

Saturday's weather resulted in adequate ground conditions for all the games played. The match between the Cheetahs and the Drifters was fast and intense. The Drifters showed well developed attacking tactics and played a defensive game. The Cheetahs' game wasn't to their usual standard. The Drifters' win puts them second on the points table.

■ Y7 – 56%; Y8 – 68%

Secondary

-Positive, Negative, and Neutral Writing

Almost everyone on the planet loves Titanic. It already qualifies as one of the box-office champions of all time. Director James Cameron has provided the physical spectacle of the year, however, and for mere technical know-how it is mighty impressive. Beyond that, the wonder fades. There's all that potential human drama on board, but the script can only conjure up repetitive scenes with nasty Billy Zane. Why wasn't he just given a mustache to twirl? A glowing Kate Winslet does manage to light up the screen from time to time. Mr. DiCaprio pales, however, when he shares the screen with Winslet.

Overall, this review is: positive

neutral

□ Y9 – 37%; Y10 – 43%

Intermediate – Conclusions

Approximately one hundred thousand tuatara live in about thirty islands off the coast of New Zealand. Tuatara live for up to one hundred years. The males can grow up to sixty centimetres long, and they take up to thirty years to reach their full size. Tuatara live in burrows, and their young hatch out from eggs. On sunny days, tuatara sunbathe just outside their burrows, storing heat from the sun. At night, they come out to hunt insects, such as beetles and weta. They also eat lizards, seabirds and their eggs, and even baby tuatara. Tuatara have very good eyesight, and the pupils of their eyes expand in the dark so that they can see at night.

i) "Tuatara do not have good sight in daylight."

Is this conclusion correct?

Yes or No (circle one)

ii) "Male tuatara can take up to approximately one third of their life to reach full size."

Is this conclusion correct?

Yes or No (circle one)

☐ Y7 – 45%; Y8 – 50%

Secondary - Ambiguity

According to the brochure, the house was built roughly in 1920.

This sentence is ambiguous as it has two very different meanings. One possible meaning is that the house was not very well built. What is the other possible meaning of the sentence?

The house was built in approximately 1920

☐ Y9 – 58%; Y10 – 69%
